

All that's missing is a glass of wine

Sunday December 18 2005

instead of forceps in some Indian dental clinics. After these two visits to India, I started reacting to the Cartesian approach of western medicine. In 1974, when I had to prepare a thesis for my final examination, I decided to choose an 'Indian' topic. Though I techniques such as meditation, breath